On returning to the US in 1987, Kim and I decided to greatly simplify our lives. We purchased a small farm near Nemo, SD, where we have been attempting to grow much of our own food up to the present time. In recent years, we have been constructing an off-grid, solar-electric house. Although we've been living in this building for the last 5 years, it remains a work in progress. Stewardship of our little slice of the Black Hills ecosystem is a major emphasis in our lives. We served as volunteer firefighters with the Nemo Fire Dept. for many years.
